2. Additionally for devices obtained at a discount

A customer who benefits from a discounted device in connection with a Swisscom mobile contract cannot change their subscription free of charge until at least six months have passed. Customers who wish to change to a subscription with a lower monthly charge within those six months will incur a one-time fee of CHF 200. Changing to a subscription with a higher monthly charge is free of charge at any time.

II. Provisions for existing subscriptions

Existing subscriptions are all Swisscom mobile subscriptions not listed in section (excl. Wingo-, M-Budget Mobile-, Simply Mobile- und Coop Mobile-subscriptions).

Customers who enter into a mobile contract when buying a device (mobile phone, tablet or connected device) from Swisscom normally receive the device at a discount. The purchase price is calculated based on the subscription the customer has chosen.

Existing subscriptions can only be changed to current subscriptions as described in section I, subject to the following provisions:

- If a customer wishes to change to a current subscription with a lower monthly charge within 12 months of entering into a contract or extending a contract for an existing subscription, Swisscom will charge that customer a one-time fee of CHF 200 for mobile contracts and a one-time fee of CHF 100 for data contracts. After 12 months the customer can change to a current subscription at no charge. A change to a current subscription with higher monthly charge is free of charge.
- Customers can change from an inOne (SME/XTRA) mobile light or XS subscription to a current subscription at no charge at any time.
- If a customer extends their contract or enters into a new contract without a device (for a reduced subscription price), they can change to a current subscription at no charge at any time.
