

swisscom

Disclaimer

Non-binding offer

No element, neither on the website nor in the newsletter sent by Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd, can be deemed a binding offer to a visitor of the website, or to the reader of the newsletter. If in exceptional cases Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd wishes to make a binding offer via the website or the newsletter, Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd shall declare this clearly and unambiguously. Should there be any doubts about this, the visitor must assume that Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd does not wish to make a binding offer.

Exemption clause

Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd rejects any liability whatsoever for information retrieved from the Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd website or newsletter. This only excludes information that shows Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd has copyright or clearly originates from Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd. Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd has no control over information stored on external servers, services with public access, Usenet news servers, discussion forums, chat rooms, etc. The information on the Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd website can change at any time. Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd cannot guarantee that this information is complete or up to date. Visitors use it at their own risk. Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd shall not be responsible for the quality of goods or services ordered via the portal, in particular not with regard to accuracy, completeness, topicality, legality, usefulness, availability and timely delivery of which are provided via the portal. Any liability by Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd is excluded. This is regardless of whether Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd offers the services itself or merely collects payment of third party receivables from the customer.

The MSISDN (telephone number) may be forwarded by Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd to the technical partner in question and to the individual third party service provider/licensor.

Rights to intangible goods

It should be assumed that the information accessible via the Swisscom (Switzerland) Ltd website and newsletter is protected by copyright and may be used for commercial purposes only with the consent of the copyright holder and against remuneration.

Purchased content may only be used by the customer on the mobile phone to which such content was downloaded. No copies of the content may be made. Furthermore no sub licences may be issued or rights in any way transferred to third parties. Furthermore neither the content, nor any material it is based on, which constitutes a part or an element of the content may be modified, altered, changed, separated or returned to an earlier stage, or corrected. No brand names of any licensors may be used. Any liability by third parties/licensors is excluded.